The power of recovery: prosthetics, rehabilitation, and adaptive clothing from Lifesaving Merch

Lifesaving Merch by FUIB always responds to critical challenges - and today, one of the most pressing issues is supporting wounded soldiers through rehabilitation and recovery after serious injuries and amputations. This spring, the initiative has already delivered 500 items of adaptive clothing to evacuation trains and military hospitals.

Lifesaving Merch has developed adaptive clothing designed for ease of wear, even for those recovering from injuries or using prosthetics. These adaptive garments combine functionality with style. Equipped with Velcro fastenings, discreet openings, and special closures, they simplify dressing, undressing, and wound care. Every purchase you make helps those learning to live again after war reclaim their life.

Thanks to the support of people who share the project's mission, Lifesaving Merch raised UAH 349,880 in February, which funded:

- two blood deliveries for Donor UA
- 153 SICH tourniquets for Blood Agents
- three infusion and blood warmers for Hospitaliers.

The adaptive clothing delivered for evacuation trains and hospitals this month includes:

- 250 adaptive T-shirts for the wounded donated to the KOLO Charity Foundation
- 250 adaptive pants for the wounded, also donated to KOLO
